25 Where does Hawaiian pizza come from?

The Hawaiian Pizza

Pineapple on pizza? Where does it even come from? Pizza originates in Italy and Italians are proud of their pizza. But the Hawaiian pizza, topped with ham and pineapple, has nothing to do with Italy. It was a Greek immigrant called Sam Panopoulos who invented it and first introduced it to the menu of his restaurant. It was in 1962, three years after Hawaii became the 50th state of the USA. People loved everything Hawaiian. So, when they started to import Hawaiian pineapple into North America, Panopoulos had the idea of putting it on a pizza and calling it the Hawaiian pizza. He immediately brought this idea to life in his restaurant in the province of Ontario, Canada. His guests loved it or hated it from the beginning. Recently a survey has found that 82% of people like pineapple, but only 53% like the fruit on their pizza. And you? Do you love it or hate it?

26 What does the article say about the unusual library?

An Unusual Library

The phrase goes, ‘One man’s trash is another man’s treasure,’ and garbage collectors in Turkey have really taken that phrase seriously. A few months ago, they opened a library composed only of books they found in garbage cans in the country’s capital of Ankara. At the beginning, the library was planned to be used only by garbage collectors and their families, but as interest grew, it officially opened to the public. Since then, people have been bringing their unwanted books to leave them there for somebody else. The library now has over 25,000 books, which is more than some schools in the area can lend to their readers. Following the success of the library, the garbage collectors want to do more: they will change an old garbage truck into a mobile library. They want to drive it to nearby schools so that their students can borrow books they can’t find in their school libraries.

(www.matadornetwork.com, upraveno)

- [A] It has become a mobile library.
- [B] It will borrow books from nearby schools.
- [C] Anybody can come there to borrow a book.
- [D] There are only books found in garbage cans.

27 Why does Paul Barton upload videos onto his YouTube channel?

YouTuber Paul Barton

A man named Paul Barton lives in an Asian rescue centre which takes care of blind and ill elephants. To cheer them up, Barton plays the piano for them. ‘It’s entertaining for me. If the elephants hate the music I’m playing, they make loud noises. If they love it, they dance. I have no idea who taught them to react to music like that,’ smiles Barton. Either way, his playing attracts the animals’ attention. Barton uploads videos of them on his YouTube channel. Most viewers understand that Barton doesn’t mean to collect money through his videos. They send it anyway for Barton to have some money for himself. But he keeps none of it. Viewers also send the links to his videos to others. If they didn’t, Barton would never be able to make so many people interested in the centre. ‘I’m happy people around the world know about it now. That’s all I intended,’ says Paul Barton.

(www.dailymail.co.uk, upraveno)

- [A] to make money for himself
- [B] to bring attention to a rescue centre
- [C] to entertain people by playing the piano
- [D] to show his method of teaching elephants to dance

28 What did Jim Murphy do for his parents last summer?

My Parents

Blog by Jim Murphy

When Mum asked me to find a retirement home^[1] for her and Dad last summer, I started looking for one. But my wife felt that it wasn’t right and that we should move in with my parents and take care of them ourselves. I had to agree and we decided to move. However, we needed the whole summer to do it and my parents needed help right away. So, my children offered to take care of them during the summer. But we didn’t want them to cancel their summer holiday activities, which is why I decided to hire a nurse instead. I found one quickly and my parents had some help. The nurse would look after my parents while we were getting ready to move. My parents agreed to it. When the summer was over, my family and I moved in with my parents. I think they are much happier with us and our children than they would be in any retirement home.

(CZVV)

- [A] He paid a nurse to take care of them.
- [B] He found a retirement home¹ for them.
- [C] He sent his children to take care of them.
- [D] He moved in with them to take care of them.

29 What happened at the wedding reception¹?

The Wedding Reception^[1] of Estelle and Larry Bam

Estelle and Larry Bam from Cape Town had a wedding reception that all their guests will remember. A few weeks before their wedding, Larry secretly sent wedding invitations to Estelle’s favourite celebrities. He didn’t want them to come to the wedding, he just hoped to collect as many answers as possible, and he did. Larry couldn’t wait to give the collection of the celebrities’ replies to Estelle at the wedding reception. But when the moment came their parents suddenly started shouting at each other. Soon other guests started joining them, a fight started and the wedding reception had to end. Estelle was mad because her husband had lost his wedding ring while trying to stop the fight. However, when they were alone in their hotel room and Larry finally gave her the collection, she was happy again. She absolutely didn’t expect that. ‘It was the best, even better than having our favourite celebrities show up. So I was glad none of them came in the end because I’d feel embarrassed by the fight,’ said Estelle.

(www.boredpanda.com, inspirováno)

- [A] The couple’s favourite celebrities showed up.
- [B] The husband gave his wife a surprising gift.
- [C] The couple’s parents got into an argument.
- [D] The wife lost her husband’s wedding ring.

Přečtěte si tvrzení v úlohách 30–39 a informační leták cestovní kanceláře RouteRide k výpravě na motorkách značky Vespa po slavné americké mezinárodní dálnici Route 66. Na základě informací v textu rozhodněte, zda jsou tvrzení pravdivá (P), nebo nepravdivá (N).

Los Angeles to Chicago or Chicago to Los Angeles with RouteRide

2,278 miles, 8 states, 3 time zones, 16 days, 1 Vespa: an experience of a lifetime!

- $760 for one or $1,400 for two! Besides all the fuel needed, the price is for: accommodation, daily breakfast and dinner and accompanying staff. Nothing extra is included in the price.
- The number of clients is limited because of safety. In one 16-day trip there can be up to 12 couples, or a combination of couples and singles (for example 6 couples and 12 singles), but never more than 24 participants.

ROUTE PLAN

- In 16 days, you will cover 2,278 miles on Vespa motorbikes. Please don't forget to check the technical condition of your Vespa before the trip. If you don't have time to look at your Vespa, don't worry. RouteRide hires mechanics who will check its clients' motorbikes at the places of departure. If you don't have a Vespa and you plan to ride a rented one, please have it checked by the rental company. RouteRide does not provide any Vespas.
- To make it to your destination in 16 days, you will need to ride your motorbike 143 miles a day. At an average speed of 25 mph, this can be done in 5 h 45 min. However, the trip is not only about riding a motorbike, it's also about making stops at interesting sites along the way. To visit everything as planned, you will set out on the journey every day just as the sun comes up.
- Please note that some sections of Route 66 run through states with dangerous wild animals and hot and dry weather, especially Arizona. However, the animals there are not as dangerous as the heat. The heat can make you unable to continue riding your Vespa so remember to drink a lot of water.
- Although the plan has been carefully put together by RouteRide's experienced guides, changes are possible. However, RouteRide will not make any if they are not informed of your wishes before the whole trip starts.

ACCOMMODATION

- RouteRide has had the best experience with motels along local roads off Route 66. Their rooms are as cosy as the rooms in the motels along Route 66, but much cheaper. That's why RouteRide books rooms in them for you. Remember: breakfast and dinner are included!

ROUTE L: Los Angeles → Chicago August 1 – August 16

Registration: Any time before departure but no later than the day before departure. Your registration will be confirmed within an hour via text message.

Departure: From RouteRide's car park on the corner of Santa Monica Boulevard and Vine Street.

Arrival: The Main Station car park on the corner of Jefferson and Jackson Boulevard. RouteRide is allowed to use it.

Service: Apart from our two experienced guides, Pedro and Nia, a nurse, a mechanic and a driver of the accompanying vehicle will be part of the staff who take care of you during the whole trip.

ROUTE C: Chicago → Los Angeles August 17 – September 1

Registration: Any time before departure until July 31. By August 4, RouteRide will confirm your registration via e-mail.

Departure: From the petrol station on the corner of Jefferson and Jackson Boulevard, opposite RouteRide's car park.

Arrival: RouteRide's car park on the corner of Santa Monica Boulevard and Vine Street.

Service: You will be accompanied by two excellent guides: Shanice, who is also a nurse, and Old Mike (25 years of experience!), who will also be your mechanic in case your Vespa breaks down. Besides them, Jim, the driver of the accompanying vehicle, will also be part of the staff during the trip.

(CZVV)

- 30 Fuel is included in the price.
- 31 A maximum of 24 clients can take part in one trip.
- 32 You can either choose to use your own motorbike or rent one from RouteRide.
- 33 Daily motorbike rides start at sunrise.
- 34 In Arizona, the greatest danger for clients is the wildlife.
- 35 The route can be changed according to your wishes, but only to those expressed before departure from Los Angeles or Chicago.
- 36 Accommodation is provided in motels located on Route 66.
- 37 For both routes, you must register by the end of July.
- 38 Both routes start at the same place.
- 39 Five RouteRide employees will accompany you on both Route L and Route C.

Hi Celia,

I decided to write a letter to you. I don't think I've ever used this way of communication with anyone, except maybe with my Grandma when I was little. See, the idea came to me when I saw a colleague writing a letter by hand because his phone had died shortly before my arrival here. So, he gave up calling his girlfriend and just sat down and started to write. How romantic! So, despite having the opportunity to be online here, I went for writing a letter by hand instead of e-mailing or texting you. I feel so old-fashioned! Just like when my Grandpa was in Vietnam writing letters to my Grandma. She showed me the letters once, they were in an old box. But you don't have to keep this letter in a box and open it again when we're old if you don't want to. I just hope you feel my love more when you're holding this.

Anyway, my flight from London to Haiti was okay. A big, unpleasant surprise came when I got to the hospital. I was told there were no more flats for foreign doctors at that moment. So, I'm sleeping on an old bed in the doctors' room for now, hoping the situation changes soon. And work, Celia? I had a 12-hour shift, and then two more shifts just as long! Three days in a row! I was so exhausted afterwards that I cried. I'd never cried after work before! But don't worry about me, I'm okay now. I simply must remember to eat and drink during my shifts. I've found the local cuisine amazing! The meals are rich and tasty. I hate to say it, but English cuisine isn't as good. I don't miss the cold sea at home either. The Caribbean Sea here is so much warmer. My colleagues and I had so much fun swimming in it yesterday on our day off. It was my first swim here. The beaches are a bit dirty, but it didn't bother us.

And how are you, my love? Do you miss me? I miss you terribly. I had to stop drinking black tea with milk here. Can you imagine? Me, an Englishman, not drinking tea! It is because it reminded me of you and our afternoon tea together. And I started to miss you. Also, when I see a girl in the hospital who looks like you, perhaps I look at her for too long. Sometimes I feel like I see you everywhere. There are more things that make me miss you, but none is worse than seeing couples holding hands. Those are the moments I really wish you were here with me. Sometimes I drink a glass of sweet wine in the evening and think of you; what you are doing, if you're alright... I love such evenings here the most.

When I go to bed, I hope that you will be in my dreams. Do you feel like that too? I'd be in your dreams every night if it was up to me, my love. Why haven't you been in any of mine yet? I used to dream about you twice a week before I came here. And now? Nothing. But I've dreamt about my mum three times here already. Funny, isn't it? Could you please also be in mine at least once while I'm in Haiti? That way we could be together for a while. Now, I'm just counting the days until we see each other next month. I can't wait! My flight will be much shorter than the one over here to Port-au-Prince, but I have to change planes once because there is no direct flight to Orlando. It's a pity I can't go all the way to New York City, honey. I know that would be the best plan for you, but I just can't afford to go any further than Orlando. Maybe some other time? Anyway, like I said I can't wait to hug you and kiss you again. I'll be waiting for your flight from Paris at the airport.

I love you.

George

(CZVV)

- 40 Why did George decide to write a letter to Celia?
- Because:

- [A] he found it romantic.
- [B] his mobile phone had died.

They are busy this Sunday but are free this Saturday. They want to visit a mini zoo that has goats and sheep and is within a 30 km drive from Belfast. They want to take their dog with them, so dogs must be allowed in.

- 46 the Kellys

Their wish for their children is to see goats and sheep at a mini zoo. They want to visit one this Sunday, with a drive from Belfast not being longer than 30 km. They'd like to take their dog with them but if it's not possible, it's fine.

- 47 the McLaughlins

They went to see goats and sheep at a mini zoo last Sunday, and this Saturday they want to see chickens and ducks. They don't want to drive more than 50 km from Belfast to the mini zoo. If their dog can't enter the mini zoo, they won't go there.

- 48 the Hegartys

They want to spend this Sunday at a mini zoo to see sheep and goats. The drive from Belfast to the mini zoo must not be longer than 50 km. Dogs must be allowed to enter along with their owners.

- 49 the Gallaghers

They want to visit a mini zoo within a 30 km drive from Belfast this Sunday. The mini zoo should have ducks and chickens for their children to see. If they could take their dog with them, that would be great. If not, it's fine.

- [A] Come and visit our mini zoo this weekend! Our mini zoo is only a 20 km drive from Antrim, and twice as long from Belfast. Visiting our mini zoo is the perfect family day out. Watch our goats, chickens, sheep, and ducks having fun. Feeding the animals is allowed while entering with a pet is not. We are open all weekend so come and bring your whole family with you. See you all here! More on www.kellsminizoo.com.
- [B] Thinking of a weekend out in the countryside? Busy on Saturday but free on Sunday? Come and visit our mini zoo as that's the only day we're open to the public! You can spend as much time with our tiny little chickens and ducks as you like. Feeding the animals is allowed and so is entering with a pet. Why should your dog stay at home? We are a 25 km drive from Lame and only a 20 km drive from Belfast. www.ourzoo.com
- [C] Looking for a fun weekend activity for the whole family? Then come and visit our mini zoo, only a 49 km drive from Belfast! Meet our friendly sheep and goats, and our cute chickens. Children will love learning about our farm animals and about feeding them. We are open all week except for Saturday. Please note that visitors' pets are welcome to come with them, no need to leave them at home. More on www.friendly-zoo.com.
- [D] Visit our mini zoo and create memories to last a lifetime! We have lovely domestic animals for you to see and feed: little white goats, friendly sheep, and cute ponies. If you wait a month, you will also see our new animals: tiny chickens and ducks. You don't have to drive far, if you are coming from Belfast, it's only a 26 km drive. We are open on weekdays as well as all weekend. Bringing dogs along with you is forbidden unlike feeding the animals, which is allowed. www.mini-zoo.com
- [E] Take your family to enjoy our mini zoo located just twelve kilometres northwest of Belfast. We have more animals than any other mini zoo in Northern Ireland: white goats, friendly ponies, lots of sheep and cows, and cute geese. Feeding the animals is allowed and so is bringing your pet with you. No need to leave it at home. We are open all week except for Sunday. We are looking forward to your visit. More on www.minizoo.com.
- [F] Discover a world of fun and adventure at our mini zoo, 27 km by car from Belfast! Please note that the drive is 10 km longer this month due to road repairs. We are quite a big mini zoo with cute goats, sheep, chickens, and ducks. You can come to our mini zoo with your dogs, but you must leave them at our playground for dogs outside our mini zoo. We're open on both Saturday and Sunday. See you all soon! www.petanimals.com
- [G] Discover the magic of nature not far from Belfast! Visit our mini zoo and spend some fun time with our jolly ducks and chickens. Our zoo is perfect for a fun-filled Saturday, and it is only a 28 km drive from Belfast. We aren't open on Sunday. Children will have fun watching and feeding the animals as well if they want. Even your dog is welcome so if you want to bring it with you, you can. More information on www.belminizoo.com.

25 Who invented the potato chip?

Crispy Delight: The Invention of the Potato Chip

Eighty years before businessman Herman Lay founded the Lays Company, known today for its potato chips, an incident took place at a resort in Saratoga Springs, New York. A customer complained that the resort’s chef’s French fries were too thick. So, George Crum, the chef, sliced the potatoes paper-thin and deep-fried them until crispy. The result was a revolutionary creation – the first potato chip. At first, it was a regional specialty, but as mass production techniques came in, potato chips became popular everywhere. It was William Tappenden who began producing potato chips commercially. He was using a mechanical slicer invented by Mae Gripp and her husband William. The Gripps’ invention really helped the production of potato chips. Today, millions of bags of potato chips are produced in factories.

26 What did David Spargo do according to the article?

An Australian Band’s Fan

David Spargo is a fan of the Australian band Peking Duk. After a concert in Melbourne, David went backstage to their dressing room, but a security guard stopped him. David showed him his ID and told him he was a band member’s cousin. To prove it, David opened Peking Duk’s Wikipedia webpage on his phone and showed the guard his name there. So the guard let David in. David introduced himself to the band who had no idea who he was. They thought he was another fan using a fake ID to meet them. When David told them that he had added his name to their Wikipedia webpage only a few minutes before, they couldn’t believe it. ‘It was the smartest thing ever. It reminded me of my cousin who also did all kinds of crazy things to meet his favourite artists backstage and made some people angry because of it. But we couldn’t get annoyed with David. He was the first fan to get backstage without a fake ID. And that’s something!’ said a band member.

- [A] He made the band members angry.
- [B] He showed a security guard a fake ID.
- [C] He changed some facts on a webpage.
- [D] He met his cousin backstage at a concert.

27 What is this piece of news about?

People travelling to work by public transport daily have been in various situations. Delays and cancellations of services can make their lives harder, and we’re not just talking about heavy rain or icy roads in the winter. Sometimes the situations are rather crazy. For example, last Friday people taking a morning bus to south London saw a large lorry stuck under a railway bridge. It couldn’t move. The situation was funny because the lorry had the slogan ‘WE FIT’ on it. However, the passengers failed to see the funny side of it as they were going to be late for work. The driver of the lorry, which was half a metre taller than the bridge, was half asleep in the rainy morning weather. The company owner apologised at the weekend to road and train travellers for all the delays caused with an amusing statement: ‘WE FIT. Except when we do not. Sorry.’

28 Who was borrowed most often from the Human Library in 2021?

Welcome to the Human Library

In Denmark, there is a library where visitors can borrow people instead of books. They meet the people there at a certain time and listen to their life stories for 30 minutes. The goal is to share situations with people that they have not experienced. Visitors can also come to ask for help. The library went online in 2020 and it became especially popular in 2021 due to the difficult times everybody was experiencing during the pandemic. That year, a thousand visitors borrowed someone with financial difficulties. Twice as many visitors came to talk to someone with lots of children. Most of the visitors had only one or two kids but they found it hard anyway. So, these visitors looked for help in the library. Around eight hundred visitors visited the Human Library to talk to unemployed people. This was three hundred visitors more than those who came to talk to someone who was homeless. People with no job were borrowed most often from the Human Library in the previous years, which was a surprising decrease.

- [A] people with no job
- [B] people with no home
- [C] people with lots of children
- [D] people with money problems

29 What is Dion Leonard planning to do?

A Marathon Runner and a Homeless Dog

Scottish extreme marathoner, Dion Leonard, was joined by a homeless female dog in China last month while competing in the Gobi March, a 6-day race. She ran with him to the end of the difficult race. In the end, Dion decided to name the dog Gobi after the race, and to bring her home with him. However, taking an animal out of China is not easy, so Dion left Gobi the dog with a friend and went home to start the months-long legal process. But then last week, he learnt that Gobi was missing. Dion flew back to China to look for Gobi himself. And indeed, he found her, and she was in good health! But it will still take some more time to complete the legal process to move Gobi to Scotland. ‘This time I’ll stay in China with Gobi by my side until it is legally okay for her to leave with me. I’ve already spent all of my prize money on my staying here, but I don’t care,’ says Dion.

30 The Museum of Bad Art was founded ^[1] in 1994.

1. found: založit ←

31 MOBA was created by two people.

32 MOBA’s first piece of art was a painting of a lady in a green dress.

33 People can visit MOBA for free.

34 Both pieces of art stolen from MOBA were returned.

35 There is more than one security camera in MOBA.

36 Guests at the Bad Cake Café can buy an item on the menu for $1.

37 Both James L. Chung and Evelyn Rojo have visited MOBA twice.

38 James L. Chung’s interview with the owners of MOBA took place sooner than Evelyn Rojo’s interview with them.

39 Both James L. Chung and Evelyn Rojo have offered to give MOBA a piece of bad art.

THE MUSEUM OF BAD ART (MOBA) IN BOSTON

Art too bad to be ignored

BASIC INFO → The first exhibition of bad art in MOBA was shown to the world in March 1994, five months after the museum had been founded^[1] in Boston.

One day antique dealer Scott Wilson discovered a really bad painting in the trash. He liked how bad it was so much that he took it home. He showed it to his friend Jerry Reilly and that was when they created a museum which they called The Museum of Bad Art. They started collecting bad art and later Reilly’s wife Marie helped them prepare the first exhibition for MOBA.

THE EXHIBITION → Today there are hundreds of pieces of bad art. MOBA’s first piece of art, which Wilson found in the trash, was a portrait of a lady in a field with flowers. Everything except for her hair, chair, and dress is green, so it is a very lively painting. It is still one of the most popular pieces in the museum.

PRACTICAL INFORMATION → The museum is open Sun/Mon: 11:30 am – 9 pm, Tue – Thu: 11:30 am – 10 pm, and Fri/Sat: 11:30 am – 11 pm. The highest price the museum asks visitors to pay is $6.50, but not as an admission fee, because there is none. The price is for buying a painting if visitors are interested in any.

INTERESTING FACTS → Although the art has no value, there were two thefts^[2] in the past. In 1996 a painting called Eileen disappeared. The museum immediately offered $36.73 for it, but nobody returned it. The second theft happened in 2004, when a painting called Self Portrait as a Drainpipe was taken by someone who demanded $10 for its return. However, very soon the painting just appeared back at the museum door without that money being paid. Surprisingly, the same happened with Eileen two years later. The thieves were never found.

After the first theft, museum staff installed a fake security camera inside the museum. But as it did not prevent the other theft no more cameras were added and the one already installed there became a part of the exhibition.

THE BAD CAKE CAFÉ → The café offers cakes that look just as bad as the paintings. But it is great fun. Guests can decide how much they want to pay for each item on the menu but never less than a dollar. Sometimes people are willing to pay up to $5 for the last ugly, blue muffin.

JOURNALISTS GIVE THEIR VIEWS:

James L. Chung, The Boston Planet:

‘When I visited MOBA for the first time I had so much fun. So, I soon went again with my whole family. That’s when I asked the owners for an interview. They weren’t available until January 2024, but it was worth the wait. The interview took place outside the museum and was fun. They love their museum and are happy that it has so many visitors each year. There are strict rules about what they accept to become a part of the collection. No children’s drawings are accepted for example. I found that out when I offered some of my son’s bad pictures. The owners really don’t want to make fun of the works; they just want to share joy. I definitely recommend that you visit the museum.’

Evelyn Rojo, El Arte: ‘You’ll laugh but MOBA was the first museum I visited in the US when I came here in January 2024. And I intend to visit it more than once. Surprisingly, I met the owners there that January day and I asked them for an interview, which took place online six weeks later. As an art lover, I was interested in their reasons for showing bad art. Are they making fun of the artists? No, don’t worry. They just want to show anything can be art if people like it. I offered to give MOBA an excellent, well-known piece of art for the museum to have something nice, but the owners politely refused. I give MOBA five stars!’

Dear Mum,

Greetings from training camp in Sweden! The journey to Sweden was long but exciting. The flight from Prague took about two hours. I had a window seat, so I had the chance to enjoy some great views. In Stockholm, I was supposed to hop on a train, but I was late, and the train had already left. There wasn’t another train going in my direction for nearly two hours. So, I waited, got on that one and was lucky my trainer was still waiting to pick me up when I finally arrived at the station near our training camp. What a patient man! Before he drove me to the hostel the day I arrived, he had taken other athletes from our orienteering club in that same car all the way from Prague. They had to spend eight hours on a ferry to cross the sea from Germany to Sweden. What a cool man! If I had to use a ferry instead of the plane, I wouldn’t go.

When I finally got to the training camp hostel, I was tired but also excited to start the training. The hostel is in a forested area, so I was surprised to find there is a big town not far from it. At home, there are usually large forests near villages, not near towns and cities like here. The nearest village is more than thirty miles away. I also thought the hostel would be located near the mountains, but it is flat here. I’m glad because the weather’s really hot and running uphill would make us sweat even more. I miss having water around to cool down in. But thanks to our days spent training near lakes at a far distance from the hostel, there is a chance to have a swim.

The accommodation is basic but comfortable. I was looking forward to spending time with my friend Julia and sharing a room with her. However, I learned that everybody here must stay on their own as there aren’t rooms for more than one person. Some people appreciate staying in a room with one bed, they say they can relax better that way after training hard. I would still rather share a room with Julia. She was also disappointed when I texted her. She is on her way over here now as she was sick and couldn’t leave for Stockholm with me. I just hope I’m not going to get sick because I hate being alone when I’m not feeling well.

The food is tasty here, and we get plenty of it. For breakfast, we typically have bread and cheese or yogurt. I only wish there were eggs, which I love having in the morning and which I never eat at any other time of the day. Lunch and dinner are usually warm meals. We’ve been told that meatballs will be served a few times during our stay. I’m looking forward to trying them here. We had the opportunity to try some fish yesterday and it wasn’t bad, but I’d prefer the meatballs anyway. Desserts are always simple, just pudding or some cookies. So, we’ve decided to bake a pie for ourselves as there are giant blueberries everywhere. There will finally be time for it tomorrow.

We train hard in the Swedish woods and we learn new techniques. Whenever I make a mistake, my trainer encourages me. And I trust him. We learn how to run fast in these woods full of big stones and it’s much more difficult than I expected. Also, map reading is very different at this training camp compared to what we’re used to, which is an unpleasant surprise. There aren’t many paths here, and all the places look the same. But none of this bothers me. Often, we’re not patient enough and for a moment we regret being here. But improvement needs hard work, right? I know we must always remember the basic skill: quick decision-making. Of course, it can lead to more mistakes, but we mustn’t be afraid to make them. It will only help us not to repeat the same mistakes in the future.

Love, Adele

47 Kate _____

She wants to spend next Sunday on a day trip with somebody who is a student too. She has been to the countryside lately so now she wants to visit a city or a town. She needs to get there and back home by car as it’s more comfortable than by train.

48 Susie _____

She wants to go on a day trip with somebody who will go and see a city or a town with her next Sunday. She loves railways and she wouldn’t be able to enjoy them if they travelled by car. So, they must travel there and back home by train.

49 Rose _____

She wants to go on a day trip next Saturday with another student. The student must prefer hiking in the countryside to visiting a city or a town because that’s what she wants to do. She dislikes trains, so they must go by car.

- [A] Hi, I’m Tonda. I live in Prague where I teach English literature at a secondary school. I’m offering to take you to visit my hometown – Hradec Králové. I’ll walk you through the historic centre, you’ll love it! I’m offering a ride in my car but I’m also willing to go by train with you. In fact, it’s even better by train because you’ll see the beautiful countryside on the way. I’m free on both Saturday and Sunday.
- [B] Hey, I’m Dita. I live in Prague now but I come from České Budějovice. I’ll take you there. You can see historical buildings and other places worth seeing. I’m a history student at Charles University so you can ask me anything about the places we’ll see! I usually go on day trips on Saturdays but I’m busy next Saturday so I’m only free on Sunday this time. Instead of going by train, I’ll drive us there and back to Prague.
- [C] Hello, my name’s Marek. I study maths at one of Prague’s universities. I’m from Pilsen, a beautiful city with both a cathedral and a synagogue. I’m offering to take you hiking to the woods and hills near Pilsen. We might even find some mushrooms! The easiest way to get there is by train, which is what we’ll do. The journey is great, you might even get a quick look at Karlštejn Castle. Both Saturday and Sunday are fine by me, so just let me know which one works for you and I’ll be ready. - [D] Hi, I’m Veronika and I come from Prague where I am attending university to become a doctor. If you prefer Saturday to Sunday, it’s great as it’s the only day I’m free. I’m offering to take you either to visit Brno, a city in Moravia, which I know very well, or on a hike through woods to the Macocha Abyss, near Blansko, north of Brno. I used to drive to Moravia but it takes a long time now, so we’ll go by train. I hope you don’t mind.
- [E] Hey, I’m Petra and I’m from Prague. I love going on day trips at the weekend to cities and the countryside. I study psychology at university and I have a Saturday job so I’m available on Sundays only. I’m offering to take you on a hiking trip to Říp, a legendary Czech hill. It’s near the town of Terezín, which we can visit some other time. I’d like to go by train, but if you prefer going by car, I’ll drive us.
- [F] Hello, my name’s Katka and I live in Mělník but I work full time for Charles University where I studied English. I teach it now! I love going on day trips. Next weekend I’m going to visit Karlovy Vary and I’m offering to take you with me either on Saturday or on Sunday, it doesn’t matter to me. There are interesting natural sites in the area of the spa town, so I’m offering to take you hiking some other time. I dislike trains, so we’ll go by car.
- [G] Hey, I’m Pavel and I live in Prague now. I work as a waiter in Café Palais while attending university to become a historian. I’m offering to take you to go and see Kutná Hora next Saturday, or on a hiking trip to Bohemian Paradise, a protected landscape area. Just let me know which one you prefer. We can do the other some day on a Sunday. The best way to get to either place is by train. However, there will be repairs taking place on both railways so we’ll go by car.

A Lady and a Pigeon Last Wednesday at noon Mrs Bowron from Bournville, UK, went shopping. On the road, right in front of her house, she saw a pigeon lying there. Mrs Bowron thought that a car had probably hit the bird that morning and injured it. She called a vet and told him about the bird. He advised her to take it to The Bird Rescue Centre in Worcester. As Mrs Bowron doesn’t drive, she decided to arrange a cab for the bird. She carefully placed the pigeon in a box, paid the driver and asked him to take it to The Bird Rescue Centre.

Hot Air Balloon Crash Lands^[1] in San Diego A sunset wedding ceremony in a hot air balloon didn’t go quite as planned yesterday. The balloon crash landed in the garden of a San Diego house because of strong winds. So, the plans to fly until the sun set had to be cancelled. It happened just after the bride and groom exchanged wedding rings, and the balloon could no longer be controlled. After the crash landing, the San Diego Fire-Rescue Department reported that one of the 10 people on board suffered a back injury. The married couple told KGTV that the wind caught the balloon and made it move slowly from side to side over the neighbourhood. The whole situation was filmed by the surprised owner of the San Diego house. The video showed the balloon hanging from trees near his garden afterwards. Despite all that, the married couple and their guests enjoyed their wedding reception in a nearby restaurant soon after the accident.

One summer night in 2012, a search was organised in Iceland to find Inga Árnadóttir, a tourist who hadn’t returned to her tour bus after a 10 pm rest stop. But the funny part? She had returned. Inga became part of the group of tourists looking for her because she didn’t know that she was the person everyone was searching for. The tour bus had stopped near Iceland’s Eldgjá canyon. Inga used the time to go to the bathroom and change clothes. When she got on the bus again, the passengers didn’t recognize her. Instead, they became worried that she’d gone missing. The search of the area went on for two hours, but the group failed to find Inga. So, the tour guide called the police. However, before they arrived, Inga had realized that she was the missing tourist. She was right in Eldgjá canyon at that time, and called the tour guide from there immediately to stop the search. The police advised everyone to count the passengers properly next time.

Arduino Projects

Blog post by Andrew Matthews

I’ve just finished my third Arduino project and I’m already thinking about the next one. You don’t know what an Arduino project is? It is a project using something like a tiny, very simple computer (only a board with microcontrollers) to build digital devices. I learnt about Arduino at school and I’ve been using it since. The first thing I created with the help of Arduino was a wireless keyboard. It went well so I tried to make a TV remote control next. I enjoyed it as much as creating the keyboard and while working on the remote, I was already thinking about my next project. It was an LED wall clock for my mum’s new office. I loved the project and I definitely want to make another LED wall clock one day. Now my brother wants my next Arduino project to be a robotic arm for him, but I’ll go for another wireless keyboard instead. I want to create a much better one now. After that, I might create a robotic arm for my brother. Arduino projects are just cool.

Hey, guys! So, those of you translating the short text on page 34, congratulations! You are finishing the homework for Thursday’s French class. Yes, it’s due in six days, not four! I thought it was due Tuesday, too, if it makes you feel better. Anyway, the last exercise on page 33 is what Mrs Léfèbre wants us to fill in and have ready for Tuesday’s class. The teacher also told me I may use the vocabulary on page 32 to be able to do the homework. But we learnt it a week ago, so, no problem. Her lesson plan for Tuesday is to practise writing a short reply to an e-mail, the one on page 35 I think she said. It’s going to be fun. Have a nice weekend!

(CZVV)

What’s the homework for Tuesday’s French class?

- [A] learn vocabulary on page 32
- [B] do the last exercise on page 33
- [C] translate the short text on page 34
- [D] write a short reply to an e-mail on page 35

The Blue River English Language Camp

This is a basic information leaflet about camp life during your stay. Further information at 4 pm in the main building.

Accommodation and meals: All participants1 stay in double rooms. All your meals, except for lunch, will be served in the main building. The mid-day meal will be given to participants in brown bags to eat outside because the main building is closed at lunchtime.

English classes: 9 – 12 every day. You will be divided into groups, depending on the level of your English. Check the notice board to see your timetable, and please remember to come to class on time. Otherwise, you will be prevented from joining an afternoon activity that day.

Afternoon activities: After classes, you can take part in a range of activities in the camp. There are a variety of options, including some activities prepared only for those who are just starting to learn the language. We also organise sailing lessons which take place on Lake Tayn. The lessons are designed for those with some experience with sailing as well as for those who have never tried it. Check the times and places of the activities on the notice board.

Free time: Spend your free time in the camp or outside it. It’s up to you. Just note that every time you want to spend your free time outside the camp, you must be accompanied by a member of the staff unless you are at least 16. If you decide to visit Wauxhelm, the nearby town, you need to take a bus. There is a bus stop at the camp and three buses – a yellow one (at 2:15 pm), a blue one (at 3:30 pm), and a red one (at 6:00 pm) stop there. However, the last one comes from the town instead of going to it. So, keep that in mind while planning your visit to Wauxhelm.

Day trips by coach: Day trips are organised on Saturdays; everyone is expected to take part.

A Day Trip to Lake Lowren

You will go to Lake Lowren where a cruise is booked for you to see the wildlife. Before lunch, apart from swimming in the lake’s clear water, you can also go sailing. The afternoon hike along the lake includes stops at places of interest. A six-kilometre hiking tour might be too much for you to walk without a break so there will be one every two kilometres. This way, you will not hike more than two kilometres without stopping and the tour will be less tiring for you. After the tour, you will go back to the camp.

A Day Trip to Lake Moer

After arriving at Lake Moer, you will visit the Moer Farm on the shore. Then, you will spend some time on Linteau, one of the islands on Lake Moer, where you might see many rare birds. In 2019, a bridge was officially opened to connect the farm with Linteau. It replaced the ferry run by the farm. So you are lucky to be able to save time because a ferry is still the only way to get to the other islands on Lake Moer. After visiting Linteau, you will have lunch back at the farm. Then, you will set off on a hike along the lake. The footpath round the lake is 6 km long but you will hike only half its length to the coach which will take you back to the camp. Although there are many opportunities for you to spend time in the swimming pool in our camp, having fun in Lake Moer will be an unforgettable experience for you. You will not have another chance to swim in Lake Moer during your stay.

Blue River English Language Camp T-shirts: If you want to buy a T-shirt with the camp logo on it, you can order and pay for one today only, right after dinner, and collect it at the same time and place tomorrow.

Fan of the 1810s Only Wears Historical Clothes

Zack Pinsent, a 25-year-old man from Brighton, has chosen to reject modern fast fashion and only wear 1810s-style clothing. The 1810s was a period of ten years known as the Regency era so Zack is sometimes called a Regency-era gentleman. Zack burned his last pair of jeans in a symbolic fire when he was 14, and he has been dressing as a Regency-era gentleman ever since. What’s more, he has been designing clothes for other fans of history since he was 19. After 11 years of wearing 1810s-style clothing Zack is confident and says that wearing these clothes is the only way he can express himself in the 21st century.

Naturally, people look at Zack Pinsent in his 1810s-style clothing everywhere he goes. They often ask him whether he loves history or whether he is a history professor. They think that is the reason why Zack dresses as a Regency-era gentleman. Zack says, “The attention feels good although sometimes I become tired of answering people’s questions. The reason for my initial choice to put on historical clothes had nothing to do with a love of history. It was quite a simple one. My family and I found a box full of my great-grandfather’s old suits from the Regency era after we had moved house. I found that the suits fit me well, so I started wearing them. I was surprised how comfortable I felt in them, I hadn’t expected that. In the end, I wore nothing else. Wearing historical clothing is one of my greatest pleasures today. I can’t imagine feeling comfortable in modern clothes.’

Zack remembers a surprising moment from his school days, when he was voted the best-dressed person of the year. He won despite never wearing modern clothes to school like everybody else. However, there was one day when people could see Zack in jeans and a leather jacket. This was at a great 1950s-themed party at his classmate’s house. Zack bought the clothes especially for the occasion. He went shopping for the set of clothes with his best friend, who promised to buy it from Zack after the party. Interestingly, Zack saw his best friend a week ago. Zack was walking in a park in his usual clothes when he saw his best friend wearing the same outfit they had bought together. The jeans and the jacket remain the last pieces of modern clothing that Zack has worn.

As a child, Zack didn’t care about fashion and his mother chose or made all his clothes. When he began wearing 1810s-style clothing, he was lucky to have an uncle who knew a lot about history and historical clothes. He became Zack’s advisor. After wearing out his first suits, Zack now designs and hand-sews all his sets of clothes himself. Sometimes it takes him ten months to make them perfect. Zack believes that his designs fit even better than those made by a professional tailor.

And how do people usually react to Zack? He says, ‘I got used to the looks I receive, and I know that people aren’t studying me to make me feel embarrassed. At first, I was worried that people would be rude or upset by what I wear in public places. To my surprise, this has never been the case. Everywhere I go, people are keen on knowing more about my clothes. But I must say that I still feel a little nervous when a huge group of football fans walk towards me. My natural reaction is to look down in a shy manner to prevent aggressive behaviour. However, football fans have always been kind and asked me questions about the clothes.’

They can’t wait to spend their school trip at the seaside sleeping in tents. They hope it’ll be more fun than last year’s stay in little huts in the mountains. They want to cook their own meals, so there must be a shared kitchen. There must be a sports facility1.

- 48
- Redlands Secondary School students _____

They want to stay at a resort where they can stay in little huts. They want the resort to be at the seaside and to offer some kind of cultural event. If there is no restaurant at the resort and visitors have to cook their own meals in a shared kitchen, they won’t go there.

- 49
- Silverleaf Hill School students _____

After a trip to the seaside last year, they now want to go to a resort in the mountains where putting up tents is allowed. It is important to them that there is a sports facility1 at the resort. They don’t care if there’s a restaurant or a shared kitchen for visitors.

RESORTS FOR SCHOOL TRIPS

- [A] Come to The Shallows Resort. It is located in the Blue Mountains, away from the sea, and offers accommodation either in little huts, or a hostel, or an area where visitors can put up their tents. There is a big shared kitchen at Shallows where all visitors can do their cooking as there’s no restaurant. Why not watch a film every night in the outdoor cinema? It is the only free-time activity the resort offers.
- [B] Visit The Glyndŵr Resort, a resort at the seaside in Wales. Apart from a beautiful view of the sea, visitors also get an amazing view of the Black Mountains 50 km away. There are little huts and a hostel in the resort. In the hostel, visitors will find a restaurant where daily meals are served. There is also a large gym in the hostel where all visitors can work out. For cultural events, visitors have to go to the nearby city.
- [C] Spend your free time in The Wrentrood Resort in the Helve Mountains, 20 km from the seaside. The resort offers a large flat area for visitors’ tents, and a main building with a restaurant and a small cinema. Please note that cooking your own meals is not allowed. Apart from the cinema where visitors can watch popular films every night, there are two tennis courts in the resort for those keen on sports.
- [D] Welcome to The Mareford Resort, a resort at the seaside, where visitors can have fun at a pool or two tennis courts. The pool is in the hostel, where visitors can find accommodation. One of the tennis courts is behind the little huts in which visitors can stay. The second court is at the resort’s area where visitors can put up their tents. A shared kitchen is available to all visitors. To enjoy cultural events, visit the city just 5 km away.
- [E] Do you fancy a beautiful view of the sea from the mountains? Then visit The Pressard Resort, a resort in the Bennies Mountains, 20 km from the sea. After visitors put up their tents, they can explore the only building in the resort. This is where visitors will find bathrooms, a restaurant, a shared kitchen and a large room where concerts and disco dancing take place daily. There are no sport facilities1 in the resort.
- [F] Welcome to The Dogskills Resort, a resort where accommodation is possible in little huts with a beautiful view of the Grampian Mountains where the resort lies. To entertain themselves, visitors can listen to live music in the main building every night, or play baseball on the baseball field next to the main building. As for meals, come to the resort’s restaurant, or make your own meals in the shared kitchen in the main building. It’s up to you.
- [G] Visit The Kearcove Resort, a resort at the seaside in Cornwall. Besides a pool, visitors can play beach volleyball there. In the evenings, an outdoor dance floor and a live band are available. Visitors to Kearcove can stay in little huts or a hostel where they will also find a shared kitchen and a restaurant. These two places are the only places in the resort for visitors to eat or make meals.
